STRALING IN MARKET -On Tuesday morning a lady purchased a few pounds of butter in the market and left the bucket containing it on a butcher's stall and while she was making a selection of meat the bucket had mysteriously disappeared. Thefts like this are getting to be frequent. We thought that butter was so high that no one could afford to steal it, but some of these rascals are desperate and don't stick at the price. A short time since a rather respectably dressed individual walking through the market house picked up a nice roast from a butcher's stall as he passed along, and walked off with it, without so much as by your leave. To be sure he was captured and compelled to pay for the stolen beef, but what must we think of a man who can steal beef at 20 or 25 cents a Correspondence on Texas Affairs between Grant and heridan Laid before the House-Grant's Views. Washington. Dec. 18.—Among the pa-pers laid before the House yesterday is a letter to Gen. Grant, from Major General Sheridan, dated New Orleans, January 25, 1867, in relation to matters in Texas, particularly referring to the condition of Union men and freedmen in different parts of the State, which he says is truly horriof the State, which he says is truly horri-ble. He says the Government is denounced, freedmen are shot and Union men are per-secuted if they have the temerity to ex-press their opinion.

This letter General Grant, under date of Headquarters of the Army of the United States, January 29th, 1867, indorses as fol-lows: "Respectfully forwarded to the Sea-more open and renadic expression of the General's opinion than they have as yet been able to obtain, appear to think they have drawn out sufficient light to increase their indorsement of him.

No action was held by the civil author-ities upon the foregoing recommendation. Message fro the President. The President sent the following mes-sage to Congress to-day: Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Repre-

An official copy of the order Issued by Major General W. S. Hancock, commander of the lifth military district, dated Head-quarters. New Orleans, on the 29th day of November, has reached me through the regular channels of the War Department, and I herewith communicate it to Congress for such action as may seem to be proper, in view of all the circumstances.

It will be perceived that Gen. Hancock announces that he will make the law the rule of his conduct; that he will uphold the courts and other civil anthorities in the the courts and other civil authorities in the performance of their proper duties, and that he will use his military power only to preserve the peace and enforce the law. He declares very explicitly that the sacred rights of trial by jury and privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be crushed out or trodden under foot. He goes further, and in one comprehensive sentence asserts that the principles of American liberty are still the inheritance of this people, and ever shall be.

When a great soldier, with unrestricted power in his hands to oppress his fellow man, voluntarily forgoes the chance of gratifying his selfish ambition and devotes himself to the duty of building up the liberative and the selfish ambition and devotes himself to the duty of building up the liberative and the selfish ambition ambition and the selfish ambition ambition and the selfish ambition am erties and strengthening the laws of his country, he presents an example of the highest virtue that human motive is capable of practicing. The strongest claim of Washington to be first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen, is founded on the great fact that n all his illustrious career he scrupulously abstained from violating the legal and con-stitutional rights of his tellow citizens. When he surrendered his commission to Congress, the President of that body spoke his highest praise in saying he had always regarded the rights of the civil authoritie through all dangers and disasters. Wherever power above the law courted his acceptance he calmly put temptation his acceptance he calmly put temptation aside. By such magnanimous acts of forbearance he was the universal admiration of mankind, and left a name which has no rival in the history of the world.

I am far from saying General Honcock is the only officer of the American army who is influenced by the example of Washington. Doubtless thousands of them are faithfully devoted to the principles for which the men of the revolution laid down which the men of the revolution laid down their lives, but the distinguished honor be ongs to him of being the first officer in high command south of the Potomac, sin close of the civil war, who has given utterance to these noble sentiments in the form of a military order.

I respectfully suggest to Congress some public recognition of Gen. Hancock's pat-riotic conduct is due, if not to him to the friends of law and justice throughout the country. Of such an act as his, at such a time, it is but fitting that the dignity should be vindicated and virtue proclaimed, as its value as an example may not be lost to the

Mr. GARFIELD, from the committee on Military Affairs, reported a bill providing that all persons relieved from the charge of desertion or absence without leave from the army or navy by act of July 19th, 1867, shall be furnished certificates of honorable discharge, under limitation and rescrictions of that act. The 2d section repeals the 21st section of the act of March 3 l, 1865, which disfranchises deserters, except that it is not to effect decisions of courts-martial, and not entitle any person to bounty, pension, pay or emoluments of any kind pay or emoluments of any kind.

The bill was discussed by Messrs, Garfield, Ely, Washburne of Indiana, Logan, and other members. The morning hour expired and the bill went over.

Mr. BUTLER, from the committee on Appropriations, reported an appropriation bill to supply deficiencies in the execution of bill to supply deficiencies in the execution of the reconstruction laws, and for service of quartermasters. The whole bill amounts to $12,665,000.

The House went into committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, Mr. Dawes in the Chair. Mr. SPALDING addressed the committee, claiming the House had, under certain circumstances and conditions, a right to interfere with the treaty making power not recall the words of that resolution.

On motion of Mr. BANKS the message was laid on the table and ordered printed. Mr. ASHLEY, of Obio, called up the motion to reconsider the vote by which the reconstruction bill of his was on the sixth of December referred to the Judiciary committee. He remarked that the committee on Reconstruction had agreed substantially to his bill

Mr. BINGHAM corrected his colleague and said the Reconstruction committee had rejected the substitute of his bill. The reference was reconsidered and the bill came before the House. Mr. STEVENS, of Pa., from the Reconstruction committee, offered a substitute, the bill he sought to introduce yesterday Mr. BINGHAM moved to amend the substitute by striking out the third section.

Mr. MAYNARD gave notice that he would offer an additional section, authorzing State Conventions to establish provisional governments.

Mr. STEVENS, in order not to retard the passage of the bill, withdrew the third Atter debate, Mr. STEVENS moved the previous question, and the substitute was agreed to and the bill, as amended, passed by a strictly party vote.
